

HOW I LIVE UNITED

My name is Jamarcus. I'm a junior in biomedical science at Auburn University and I believe in volunteering. I use my free time from work and school to mentor a 12 year-old boy through Project Uplift.

I didn't have too many role models growing up. So I've always wanted to give back to kids who are underprivileged like I was. United Way and Project Uplift allow me to do that. United Way teaches everyone to lend a helping hand. And I see myself in these kids. I see the ambition. I see the drive. I see the curiosity. I see the longing for guidance. And now I am here to help them.
