

CLIENT SUCCESS STORY

Sally, born in the U.S. to undocumented immigrants, faced challenges. Two years ago, her mother, driving drunk, caused a terrible accident that left Sally with severe injuries and PTSD symptoms. Sally's mother was deported, and she entered foster care.

At 17, Sally joined Girls Ranch. While unable to attend public school, the ranch aimed to provide her stability before adulthood. She's now attending GED classes at Southern Union and working toward a driver's permit. Her ambitions include earning a GED, taking college courses, obtaining a license, and balancing a part-time job. Full of life and hope, Sally thrives in the ranch's supportive environment that offers love and a sense of belonging.
